PARTNER PROFILE: D/A CENTRAL, INC.

Picture this: A high-tech security systems integrator that first began as a company that printed surveillance photos from film-based surveillance cameras to identify criminals for law enforcement and the banking industry.

That's part of the colorful background of D/A Central, which has transitioned from 8-by-10 glossies to data-driven solutions for its feature-rich integration offerings, not only in the physical security world but with clients looking to leverage IoT integration with non-traditional security devices.

D/A Central has a dedicated IT Managed Services Group that is leading its cyber security efforts, including cyber hygiene, which is an important element of its future-driven strategies. The company has also developed state-of-the-art parking command centers for managing multiple facilities.

As a result of its multi-faceted, forward-thinking approach, D/A Central is sought out by enterprise-level clients with multiple locations, as well as businesses in the areas of municipal infrastructure, industry, finance, parking, healthcare and higher education. Notable clients include Eaton Corp., Herman Miller, Chemical Bank, St. Joseph Mercy Health Systems and the University of Michigan.

On the training front, D/A Central has garnered vendor certifications from many companies, including Avigilon, Bosch Security Systems and Axis Communications and boasts more Lenel master certified personnel than any other Michigan-based integrator.

D/A Central, which is based in Detroit and has offices in Flint and Grand Rapids, Michigan, takes a full-service approach to business, providing security expertise for system design, consulting and integration of multiple manufacturers' equipment into one system, whether it's a new system or an update. For more than 20 years, D/A Central has been part of Security-Net, working with partner companies to provide comprehensive services worldwide.

"The world isn't standing still and neither are we," said Bill Hogan, president at D/A Central. "We continue to promote open standards that give our clients the best options available and we're focused on platforms that can synchronize and evaluate data for the most robust integrated solutions."
